ABOUT THE BOOK

The Evolution of Trading explains the two trends most affecting the financial industry in the 21st century — regulation and technology — and then expands on them through contributions from authors Mark Fadiman and June Klein. In addition to elaborating on the subject of the book, Mr. Fadiman has contributed numerous narratives from two previous publications: trading desks and Wall Street and its technological revolution. These well-received books were published in the early and mid-1990s and provide a historical record of the evolution building the United States — where many of the innovations that now provide for the foundations for the global finance business were first created. In the addendum, Mr. Fadiman and Ms. Klein present one of the iconic examples of the twenty-first century's financial trends: a central capitalist marketplace for capital formation, in one form or another, is the next, inevitable chapter in the global, money business.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Mark Fadiman is a CEO of Fadiman & Associates and the head of Klein Fadiman & Company, a financial technology consultancy. He is also the founding editor of the financial technology newsletter Investment Management Technology and the technology magazine On Wall Street (nee INDUST, Thomson Corp.). Mark has written two investment-oriented books on investing for John Wiley & Sons and Simon & Schuster. The two books, “Building Wall Street” and “MarketBook.com” were both inspired after interviews of over 500 financial professionals. He is a home mortgage professional and Mr. Fadiman is also the publisher of Universal X-Changers Corporation.

June R. Klein is founder of Libertarian-oriented Palisade Business Press (PBP) — a New Jersey-based cooperative publishing firm with over 100 titles — mostly on business and finance. Before founding PBP, Mr. Klein managed information reporting services in the financial media, including that of Wall Street and banking correspondent for Investor’s Business Daily and total brokerage and municipal financial editor for Institutional Investor magazine. He is the founding editor of the financial technology newsletter Investment Management Technology and the total brokerage magazine On Wall Street (nee INDUST, Thomson Corp.). Mark has also written two investment-oriented books on investing for John Wiley & Sons and Simon & Schuster. The two books, “Building Wall Street” and “MarketBook.com” were both inspired after interviews of over 500 financial professionals. He is a home mortgage professional and Mr. Fadiman is also the publisher of Universal X-Changers Corporation.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY11
FOREWORD 12
PART ONE
CORPORATE GOVERNANCE IN THE 21ST CENTURY
1. HOW TO INTEGRATE ORGANIZATIONAL VALUES & TECHNOLOGY — NOW 17
PART TWO
VOCES IN TECHNOLOGY: THE 1980s 31
PART THREE
CENTRALIZED MARKETPLACE FOR CAPITAL FORMATION
5. JOIN OF A NEW MARKET 107
Central Marketplaces for Capital Formation 123

CLICK HERE TO VISIT THE PUBLISHER